THE HIDDEN ART GALLERY

DISCOVERING THE ART OF TWENTY CHILDREN'S BOOK ILLUSTRATORS

The Round Lake Library has a great collection of art books that feature the works of many famous visual artists throughout history. Yet there is a hidden gallery, with thousands of beautifully created works, in an unexpected place: the Children's Room.

This month, the Round Lake Library is highlighting the work of twenty illustrators in special displays at each location. Some of these illustrators, like Maurice Sendak and Graeme Base, are famous. Others, like Bruce Degen and Eric Carle, are better known by their characters (Miss Frizzle and the Hungry Caterpillar). And others still go largely unknown—yet the work of illustrators like Diane DeGroat, Jane Dyer, and Eric Velasquez, make some of our (and our children's) favorite books stand out, thanks to the beautiful, funny, and often quite detailed illustrations.

We've chosen twenty of our favorite illustrators—stop by either library and take a look! We hope you enjoy looking at some of their art and take some time to browse the Children's Room for more hidden gems.
